The Healthy Living TC provides students with an environment of like-minded peers who want to explore the multifaceted subjects of health and wellness. Participants will motivate each other to maintain healthy habits, learn about health-related careers, and better understand the health challenges facing our local communities. Students will have the opportunity to attend specialty events, hear from guest speakers, lead community wellness groups, and participate in volunteer projects. This community is highly recommended for students in health related majors.

COMMUNITY EXPECTATIONS
Students in this Theme Community will:

- Live in a private or semi-private shared bedroom in Windward Commons with another member of the TC
- Pay a $20 activity fee each semester
- Participate in events, field trips, and volunteer projects focused on personal health, healthy lifestyle choices, careers in health professions, and understanding the health challenges affecting our local communities
- Promote a supportive environment that prioritizes healthy choices and habits

HOW DO I JOIN?
After completing your housing application, indicate interest in the TC by completing a Residential Learning Community application. Priority will be given to students who apply by April 1.

TO LEARN MORE VISIT: GSUHousing.com/ResidentialLearningCommunities

WHY CHOOSE AN TC?
Students who participate in Theme Communities (TCs) have the chance to form meaningful, lifelong relationships with their peers by exploring a shared interest together. This built-in support network allows students to have a smooth transition to the college environment and ultimately leads to greater personal, academic, and professional success.